

The School of Education at Avila University invites applications for two tenure-track faculty positions at the level of Assistant Professor for Literacy and Assistant Professor for Math/Science/Technology Education to begin August 2010. One of the positions is contingent upon funding.

Candidates for the Assistant Professor for Literacy will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in literacy. Candidates will be expected to teach courses such as Assessment and Remediation of Reading Problems, Reading in the Content Areas, and Reading Practicum.

Candidates for the Assistant Professor of Math/Science/Technology Education will teach undergraduate and graduate classes such as Methods in Mathematics, Geometry for Elementary and Middle School, Technology in Education and Elementary Science Education.

The ideal candidate will have an earned doctorate degree in literacy/reading or a doctorate degree in Math or Science education with an emphasis on technology; ABD near completion may be considered. Minimum of three years' K-12 teaching experience required. The candidate will have demonstrated effective teaching, collaborative and applied research in school settings, successful integration of technology in the both the K-12 and Collegiate level. Responsibilities include teaching, field-based supervision, academic advisement, on-going university and community service, and sustained scholarly activity.

Avila University is a Catholic University sponsored by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet and is committed to teaching students to be advocates for social justice, regardless of their professional and academic field. As part of our strategic plan, we are committed to educating our students as global citizens, capable of engaging across social and cultural boundaries. For further information see www.avila.edu.

Applicants should send a letter of application, a current vita, a philosophy statement of teaching and learning and three letters of recommendation to:

Marie J. Harris, CSJ, Ph.D.

Avila University

11901 Wornall Rd

Kansas City, MO 64145

Review of applications will begin December 1, 2009. EOE